

ABSTRACT

1 Pulse sequences are applied to a fluid in an earth formation in a static magnetic field
2 having internal gradients. From the received signals, relaxation and diffusion
3 characteristics of the fluid are determined. The determination takes into account the 4 internal field gradients.